An Honourable Sailor and Spy
Oct 02 2019 SHELLLED BY THE BRITISH ALLIES AT ORAN IN 1940, A FRENCH NAVAL OFFICER JOINS THEM IN THE WAR
On May 10, 1940, the Nazis unleashed their Blitzkrieg on France. Following the debacle of the French army, on June 17, 1940, Marshall Pétain announced that he had asked for an armistice, which was signed five days later. Instead of moving to North Africa to continue the war from the French Empire, as planned, Marshall Pétain's government chose complete submission to Hitler, although the Empire and the powerful fleet were intact. And on October 2, 1940, Marshall Pétain shook hands with Hitler at Montoire, promising him the collaboration of France. On June 18, 1940, General de Gaulle had broadcast from London his refusal to accept the armistice, inviting all those who felt likewise to join him to contribute to the final victory of the Allies. After the fall of France, the British government was deeply concerned that the French Navy might fall into the hands of the enemy. On July 3, 1940, a British squadron issued an ultimatum to a large French fleet moored at Mers el-Kebir, a French naval base in Algeria, close to Oran. The ultimatum was rejected, and in one of the most tragic episodes of World War II the British squadron shelled the French vessels at their moorings, causing considerable damage and loss of life. One of Churchill's "hardest decisions." Lieutenant Jean Boutron was serving on the battleship Bretagne at Mers el-Kebir. When his ship was sunk by HMS Hood, he was miraculously pulled out of the burning sea of oil and drowned, one of the 300 survivors out of a complement of 1,300 men. On regaining consciousness his reaction was unique among French naval officers who had survived the attack: "The British have sunk my ship. But who is sleeping in my bed? The Germans. And who are fighting the Germans? The British. I shall therefore join them. And we will win the war together." As soon as he was demobilised, in September 1940, he played a prominent role in the development of the Alliance Resistance network, which was directly connected to the British Intelligence Service. He was twice arrested, twice he escaped, and in November 1942 he was taken by a British submarine to Algiers, arriving three days after the first Anglo-American landings. After six weeks in Algiers he at last reached London, where he was the first to inform General de Gaulle about the fantastic imbroglio of Admiral Darlan's six weeks' reign in North Africa, ending with his assassination. When General de Gaulle moved to Algiers, he wanted Boutron to be his naval advisor. Boutron, however, chose to go back to sea. He spent the last two years of the war escorting Atlantic convoys, earning a DSO in the process. This book is Jean Boutron's gripping story of the momentous events that took him from Mers el-Kebir to London to join General de Gaulle and the Free French Navy in December 1942. The story of a man who refused to give in.

Touched by God May 01 2022 Luigi Gioia's book Say it to God: In Search of Prayer was chosen as the 2018 Archbishop of Canterbury's Lent Book and welcomed by many as an honest, accessible guide to freshen their practice of prayer in the midst of busy modern life. In Touched by God, Gioia moves on to explore the art of contemplation. He points out that contemplation is not a more advanced way of praying but a silent and loving attentiveness to God which has nothing in common with disembodied, ahistorical and impersonal forms of spirituality. Contemplation begins when we are touched by God through Scripture and become aware of his presence in us. Gioia shows how this happens concretely in the lives of the characters of the Gospel of John, his chosen guide to learn how to welcome God in our lives and interact with him. Gioia's way to contemplation takes the reader not only through Scripture but also through plays and novels where God is never mentioned is seen as absent, distant or even as an enemy. By engaging with both religious and non-religious authors the reader can discover that contemplation is not some kind of spiritual wonderland but coexists with doubts, thrives in the middle of struggle is discovered even in suffering, dissolves guilt and leads to authentic self-knowledge and compassion for every human being.

Let Me Tell You What I Mean Sep 24 2021 A NEW YORK TIMES NOTABLE BOOK OF THE YEAR • NEW YORK TIMES BEST SELLER • From one of our most iconic and influential writers, the award-winning author of The Year of Magical Thinking: a timeless collection of mostly early pieces that reveal what would become Joan Didion's subjects, including the press, politics, California robber barons, women, and her own self-doubt. With a forward by Hilton Als, these twelve pieces from 1968 to 2000, never before gathered together, offer an illuminating glimpse into the mind and process of a legendary figure. They showcase Joan Didion's incisive reporting, her empathetic gaze, and her role as "an articulate witness to the most stubborn and intractable truths of our time" (The New York Times Book Review). Here, Didion touches on topics ranging from newspapers ("the problem is not so much whether one trusts the news as to whether one finds it"), to the fantasy of San Simeon, to not getting into Stanford. In "Why I Write," Didion ponders the act of writing: "I write entirely to find out what I'm thinking, what I'm looking at, what I see and what it means." From her admiration for Hemingway's sentences to her acknowledgment that Martha Stewart's story is one "that has historically encouraged women in this country, even as it has threatened men," these essays are acutely and brilliantly observed. Each piece is classic Didion: incisive, bemused, and stunningly prescient.

Bird Box Sep 05 2022 Now a Netflix film starring Sandra Bullock, Sarah Paulson, Rosa Salazar and John Malkovich! Written with the narrative tension of The Road and the exquisite terror of classic Stephen King, Bird Box is a propulsive, edge-of-your-seat horror thriller, set in an apocalyptic near-future world—a masterpiece of suspense from the brilliantly imaginative Josh Malerman. Something is out there . . . Something terrifying that must not be seen. One glimpse and a person is driven to deadly violence. No one knows what it is or where it came from. Five years after it began, a handful of scattered survivors remain, including Malorie and her two young children. Living in an abandoned house near the river, she has dreamed of fleeing to a place where they might be safe. Now, that the boy and girl are four, it is time to go. But the journey ahead will be terrifying: twenty miles downriver in a rowboat—blindfolded—with nothing to rely on but her wits and the children's trained instincts. One wrong choice and they will die. And something is following them. But is it man, animal, or monster? Engulfed in darkness and surrounded by sounds both familiar and frightening, Malorie embarks on a harrowing odyssey—a trip that takes her into an unseen world and back into the past, to the companions who once saved her. Under the guidance of the stalwart Tom, a motley group of strangers banded together against the unseen terror, creating order from the chaos. But when supplies run low, they were forced to venture outside—and confront the ultimate question: in a world gone mad, who can really be trusted? Interweaving past and present, Josh Malerman's breathtaking debut is a horrific and gripping snapshot of a world unraveled that will have you racing to the final page.
